What this document is

This is the written plan a Blueprint Premium family receives: their own situation mapped across all five phases of the transition, with the home and money strategy worked out in real numbers. It is built from your completed intake form and your 60 minute call with Ryan. It is education and real estate guidance, not legal, tax, or medical advice. We coordinate with your attorney, tax professional, financial advisor, and care team. We do not replace them.

THE SITUATION AT A GLANCE

Executive Summary

Mrs. Smith is 90 with early dementia and is already safe, living two hours away with her son and his wife. The person is settled. The problem nobody wanted to touch is the house: a 1970s ranch sitting mostly empty, a nephew living there rent free, and a home equity line quietly draining the family about $1,100 every month at 13 percent interest.

A cash buyer has offered $105,000 for the home as is. After paying off the $32,000 still owed on the equity line, the family would walk with about $73,000, gone in a week. It feels fast and clean. It also leaves a great deal of money on the table at the exact moment Mrs. Smith's care is going to get more expensive.

THE BOTTOM LINE OF THIS PLAN

With about $8,000 of the right work and roughly 90 days, the same home sells near $225,000. After the equity line, repairs, and selling costs, the family nets about $169,000. That is close to $96,000 more than the cash offer, redirected straight into funding Mrs. Smith's care.

The pages that follow walk the full plan across all five phases of the transition, in the order we would run it with you.

Clarity First

Where the family stands

- Mrs. Smith is safe and cared for day to day. The move of the person has already happened. This plan is about the house and the money, not relocating Mrs. Smith.
- The home is the open wound: empty, full of decades of belongings, occupied by a nephew living rent free, and attached to a 13 percent equity line that bleeds the family every month it stays unsold.
- The family is being pulled toward the cash offer for one reason: they want the weight gone. That instinct is normal, and it is exactly where families lose the most money.

What we do first

- Stop the bleeding. Map the equity line, the monthly interest, and the cost of every additional month the house sits.
- Address the occupancy. Have a direct, documented conversation with the nephew and set a clear move out date before any work begins.
- Confirm authority. Verify that the son holds the documents he needs to act on the home and Mrs. Smith's finances. If anything is missing, this is where we flag it for the elder law attorney.
- Set the goal in one sentence: sell the home the right way, free up the most money possible, and route it into Mrs. Smith's care as the dementia progresses.

Where the Dollars Are Won or Lost

This is the heart of the plan and the lane Ryan carries personally. The decision on this home is worth roughly $96,000 to your family. Here is the math, laid side by side.

THE CASH OFFER	AMOUNT
Cash buyer offer, as is	$105,000
Pay off home equity line	– $32,000
Family nets	$73,000

THE GUIDED PATH	AMOUNT
Sale price after the right prep	$225,000
Pay off home equity line	– $32,000
Targeted repairs (see below)	– $8,000
Selling costs, about 7 percent	– $15,750
Family nets (about $96,000 more)	$169,250

The repairs that actually pay you back

The goal is not to renovate. It is to spend only where the return is several times the cost, and nowhere else.

- Pull the ruined carpet and refinish the original hardwoods underneath. Highest return in the house.
- Fresh neutral paint throughout.
- Reglaze the dated tubs rather than replacing them.
- Clean, haul, and basic landscaping for the first impression.

Roughly $8,000 total. Nothing structural, nothing custom, nothing that does not return at least three to one.

CASH BUYER AND WHOLESALER WATCH

The $105,000 offer is a wholesale offer, not a market offer. Expect follow up pressure, talk of a fast close, and warnings that prep is not worth it. None of that is in your family's interest here. We do not sign anything that locks the home up before the plan is in motion.

Legal and financial footing

- Confirm the deed and title are clear and that the son can convey the property when the time comes.
- Coordinate the timing of the sale with Mrs. Smith's benefit picture so the proceeds help her rather than disqualify her. This is worked out with the elder law attorney and the care specialist before closing, not after.

PHASE 3 OF 5 · MAKE THE MOVE

The Hand-Off, Handled

Because Mrs. Smith has already moved, the move here is the house, done with respect and in the right order.

- Clear out with care. Sort the home using the family's keep, gift, sell, donate, and discard decisions. The keepsakes that matter, about two full loads, are driven the two hours to the son's home so nothing of Mrs. Smith's is lost.
- Light rehab, about four weeks. The targeted work from Phase 2, managed on a simple schedule so it does not drift.
- List and sell. On market with proper photos and pricing, not a back room wholesale deal.

TIMELINE

Roughly 90 days from start to a closing: about four weeks of prep, then listing, offer, and close.

PHASE 4 OF 5 · THE LONG GAME

Your Team Steps In

This is where the house money becomes a real plan for Mrs. Smith, and where the family stops carrying it alone. For every part of the team, we work with your own professionals, or hand pick vetted, credentialed ones in your area and licensed in your state.

CARE

A vetted care specialist

Builds Mrs. Smith's life care plan: Medicaid and financial review, spend-down planning if it is ever needed, and stretching her money as the dementia progresses. Coaches the son and his wife on caregiving and respite so they do not burn out.

ELDER-LAW ATTORNEY

Your pro, or one we hand pick

Aligns the home sale and proceeds with Mrs. Smith's benefit picture and protects her legally.

FINANCIAL ADVISOR

Your pro, or one we hand pick

Puts the roughly $169,000 to work to fund care over the years ahead.

CPA / TAX

Your pro, or one we hand pick

Makes sure the sale does not create a tax surprise.

WHAT THIS PROTECTS

Mrs. Smith stays cared for, with real money and a real plan behind her. Her son and his wife have a team instead of a weight on their shoulders.

PHASE 5 OF 5 · CROSS THE FINISH LINE

Wrap It Up and Breathe

The transition does not end at the closing table. We confirm the plan held and hand the family a simple rhythm to stay on track over the first year.

- 30 days: Proceeds settled and routed. Care funding plan in motion with the care specialist.
- 60 days: Caregiving load on the son and his wife is sustainable, respite in place.
- 90 days: Financial plan for the proceeds confirmed with the advisor and CPA.
- 180 and 365 days: Full review of Mrs. Smith's care, finances, and the family's footing.

A soft landing into SeniorSafe keeps the day to day connected between those check-ins.

THE DIFFERENCE THIS PLAN MAKES

Same House, Nearly $96,000 More

PATH	WHAT HAPPENS	FAMILY NETS
The cash offer	Gone in a week, money left on the table	about $73,000
The guided path	A funded plan for Mrs. Smith's care	about $169,000

The house never changed. The only thing that changed was having someone on the family's side who knew what it was worth, and a plan that turned it into care.

Illustrative example. This sample plan is based on a real transition. The family name, location, and exact figures have been changed. Ryan was the cash buyer on the original deal and never got to walk this family through the better path. This document shows the plan a Blueprint Premium family receives today.
